"Goodness Sakes!"

isn't that a lovely stove!" exclaimed a lady in our store a short time ago, as she paused in front of one of the Michigan Stove Co's latest pattern cook stoves, and proceeded to critically inspect the same. The examination was satisfactory in every particular. It always is. You make no mistake in buying the kind we handle. It's the poor kind you "burn your fingers" with.

The "Quick Meal,"

How about that? Have you one? Not many moons hence ere the kitchen will be sizzling with summer heat, and you will appreciate doubly a latest improved "Quick Meal" Gasoline Stove. We have them now. They sell wonderfully easy; may be gone soon, remember.

We keep Gas Pipe, Steam Fittings for Engines, and all goods in that line.

The Woman's Missionary society of the Free Baptist church will meet on Saturday of this week at the home of Mrs. James Nelson to sew for Mrs. Minerva Wilson. Picnic dinner.

Henry Sherman has repaired and fixed up the Criterion spring property and will bottle and ship the water to Chicago; also, deliver to all who wish it here in town. Terms made known on application.

Miss Gertrude Snow will give lessons during the summer at the residence of Prof. E. A. Wilson. Those wishing to study with her may call there Tuesday, July 26, when arrangements for hours can be made.

Bob Buchanan had his examination before Justice Mason on the 13th and that of Parker and Butts was concluded on the same day—all three being held to the circuit court for trial. These are three of the four Covert robbers.

The People's party will hold their congressional convention at Lawton on the 16th of August. It is thought that by that time the fusion scheme now hatching will have become sufficiently feathered out to stand exposure to the air.

The wife of W. H. Johnson, the genial gentleman who is well known to our people as agent of Collier's publications, died at her home in Chicago on Monday morning of consumption, from which dread disease she had long been a sufferer.

Charles W. Snodgrass, mention of whose critical illness at Bloomingdale was made in these columns last week, died on the evening of the 12th inst. The remains were buried at Prospect Hill on Thursday. Deceased was about 35 years old.

John Johnson, an old resident of Hartford township, living near Shafer's lake, last Friday took two table-spoonfuls of Paris green and died after twelve hours of untold agony. Deceased was sixty-five years old and leaves a family.

The Grand Rapids Democrat of the 14th inst. gave another exhibition of the enterprise for which it has become noted by issuing a 24-page edition, every page "filled to the chases" with matter of general and local interest. Politics aside, the Democrat is a hummer.

The lecture of Prof. Cheever before the Normal school and a large audience of citizens on Wednesday evening of last week was intensely interesting. The only criticism we heard upon it was that it was too short. It is hoped he will favor us again before the close of the Institute.

W. W. Hodge of Geneva announces himself as a candidate for sheriff of this county. Mr. Hodge is well qualified to fill the office, having served ten years as deputy and under-sheriff and, in case of his nomination, THE NORTHERNER will cheerfully and to the best of its ability support him.

Another spelling school at the Normal this evening, and it is hoped that those who were never known to misspell a word will eschew Worcester, Chocaw, and all kindred schools of orthography, and confine themselves to plain, everyday Webster. That standard is good enough for common folks.

Since our last report, the following additional students have been enrolled at the Summer Normal: Bertha Frisbie, Carrie Watson, Maggie Reynolds, Lena Lyle, Mary Clark, Mrs. Marcia Beattie, Lulu Davenport, Cora Hinkley, C. H. Broughton and Herbert More. Total attendance: ladies 113; gentlemen 17.

The only child of Prof. and Mrs. A. D. Prentice of South Haven, a sweet little girl of five years, died on Monday morning. The faculty and students of the Summer Normal now in session here, in proof of their esteem and sympathy, ordered some rare floral pieces sent from Kalamazoo to the afflicted family.

The verdict of the coroner's jury in the case of Mrs. Carrie Hammond Paige, whose mysterious death at Bangor was mentioned in this journal last week, was to the effect that "she came to her death from the effects of slow poison administered by herself or by some other person or persons to the jury unknown."

H. W. McCabe, while at work on his new house last Friday, met with quite a painful accident. By the tipping of a board on which he was standing he was thrown between the joists, the force of the fall being sufficient to take the cuticle off the outside of his leg from knee to hip. Henry is now in dry dock for repairs.

Mrs. Eliza Van Hise, widow of the late Wm. O. Van Hise, died at her home in Decatur on the 13th inst. Deceased with her husband were among the early pioneers of Southwestern Michigan and together they celebrated their golden wedding anniversary two years ago last spring. Both were widely known and universally esteemed.

Of the swarms of boot-leg and back alley whisky dealers that infest our neighboring village of Decatur, five were recently pulled—John Ray, Web. Brodhead and James Mahoney on Friday and Peter Callicott and Mark Oaks on Sunday. The three first named were before Justice Mason Saturday, waived examination, and were held in $300 to the September term of the circuit court. Callcott and Oaks were in the same court Monday and their cases similarly disposed of. Ray and Brodhead secured bail; the others are in jail.

Conrad Lich of Big Rapids is visiting friends in this place and Lawton. Mr. L. carries a gold-headed ebony cane of which he may be proud, as it was presented to him by the two lodges of Odd-Fellows in Big Rapids on his 71st birthday, Nov. 11th, 1891—a conclusive proof that he is the same good citizen there as he was during his long residence here.

At our last spring township election Barnabus Odell was elected justice of the peace. It is now claimed that at the time of the election Mr. Odell was not a legal resident of this township, but that his family lived in Lawrence township and he spent most of his nights with them. We are informed by one of the township board that he registered and voted here, and it seems to us that he would not have done this had he not considered himself legally qualified to do so. He will undoubtedly explain the matter to the satisfaction of the public, for which purpose he can have the use of these columns.

The Cassopolis Democrat is trying to pave the way for a fusion of the Democratic with the People's party in the approaching campaign. Referring to Geo. L. Yapple's speech at the People's party ratification at Lansing the Democrat says: "It appears probable that he may be declared the preference of the People's party for Congress and also receive the nomination of the Democratic party." In other words, the Democratic party is willing to be the tail to anybody's kite—and endorse anybody's platform—free silver, free trade, debased currency, confiscation by the government of railroad, telegraph and telephone property—anything to "get there." Trot out your fusion nags, gentlemen, and the G. O. P. will "put them to sleep" in November.

Elijah Goble, one of the earliest pioneers of Southwestern Michigan, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. L. Freeman, in Lawrence on Wednesday evening of last week, aged 87 years. In 1828, when Michigan was yet a territory, Mr. Goble settled on Little Prairie Ronde, and two years later married the only white girl in the county, and their marriage was the first ever solemnized in Cass county. He purchased from the government at $1.25 per acre a large tract of land on and adjacent to the prairie; built a large farm house at the spot where the little hamlet of Charleston now stands, and when considerable travel had set in over the lines of stages that ran from Detroit to the lake, he added to his buildings, opened a hotel, and his place was made a stage station. Here he lived for many years, reared a large family, became widely known and universally respected. We believe that two of his children, Brookfield Goble and Mrs. J. P. Warner, still live in Decatur. His funeral occurred on Friday and his remains were laid to rest in the old Charleston cemetery, beside the wife of his youth and their children.

"To the pure all things are pure," and to the naturally depraved all things are alloyed with depravity. To divert attention from himself, the wily pick-pocket will rush down the street shouting at the top of his voice, "Stop thief!" These reflections are prompted by an article in last week's Decatur Republican, criticising the attitude of this journal on the present local option law. The article referred to would seem to have been conceived of temperance principles had it not been for the fact that, after stating that "the saloonists openly boast that they have purchased a portion of the county press," it offers its "entire plant" for sale to them, inferentially, and intimates that a change of ownership would give to them "its influence, be it more or less." To encourage the saloonists to favorably consider its proposition, it says in another editorial: "That the law is perfect, no one contends; ALL concede it to be weak," and that "it seems to us two great mistakes were made by the framers of it." Now, this is exactly the attitude of this journal—that the law is imperfect and weak—weak to absolute helplessness so far as the matter of dealing with the monster evil of intemperance is concerned. But this "plant" is not for sale, to the saloonists nor any one else.

"The scheme was 'low down' and dishonest at best." This is the language applied by the person who advertises himself as editor of the Courier to the Republicans who availed themselves of their right to vote at the special election for trustee last week. The tickets for this election were printed at the expense of the corporation, and every taxpayer will help pay for them; but this renegade Republican editor, to show his zeal for the cause of his new-found political associates, would disfranchise every citizen who will not put up a partisan candidate of his own or vote for the mossback whom he and his ilk place upon a ticket. This is truly loco-foco doctrine, and it is surprising to see how quickly a loco-foco "for revenue only" will catch on. Incapable of comprehending and discussing political issues on their merits, he is forced to fill the editorial columns of his paper with clippings from his exchanges, after which he is content to confine his own feeble efforts to crying "Force bill," "Ring," "Dishonesty," etc. What a prodigy this half-fledged loco-foco chicken is! A bankrupt in morals and intellect, venal in instincts, he assumes to question the motives of citizens in the exercise of their right to vote as they see fit. If he can succeed in calling out the applause of the yelpers, he will no doubt feel amply repaid for the exhibition he makes of his great adaptability for journalism.

Business Brevities.

R. W. Broughton explains to his customers the status of the premium ticket business in his adv. in this paper.

"The Leaders" give notice that holders of their premium cards must turn them in by Aug. 1. See their adv. to-day.
